Main Building Of Hagar Resort Leveled By Fire

The main building of the Kontiki Hillview resort motel, in Hagar township north of the Twin Cities, burned to the ground early today, after having been filled with guests for the holiday weekend.

Some anxiety for the safety of the owners, Stanley and Bernice Siemieniec, had been expressed by fire and police officers when they could not be located immediately. However, it was learned later this morning that the couple had departed for Detroit to visit a daughter after the guests had left the resort.

Benton Township Fire Chief Ken Kraiger said his department and the Lake Michigan Beach fire department were unable to save the huge wooden structure from burning to the ground because of a lack of water. A total of 4,000 gallons of water from four fire trucks were used.

Had a swimming pool at the resort been filled, the fire departments might have been able to rely on it as a source of water, Kraiger said. The swimming pool separates the main building from several other buildings.

Firemen were able to save the cash register, numerous chairs and tables from the bar area in the ground floor. They also checked most of the bedrooms before the fire raged out of control on the other two floors. No estimate of the loss was available.

Kraiger said the fire started in the kitchen area on the ground floor. Cause of the fire was undetermined, but the state fire marshal from Paw Paw was being called to make an arson investigation, Kraiger said.

The fire was reported shortly before 6 a.m. today by a neighbor. Firemen remained at the scene for almost three hours. The motel is located on Pikes and Bundy roads, Hagar township.

HOLIDAY WEEKEND CRASHES CLAIM 4 LIVES IN AREA

Two Young Men Die In Cass

Van Buren,
Allegan Both
Record Deaths

Four people died in traffic accidents over the holiday weekend in the four counties that make up Southwestern Michigan.

Two died in Cass county, one each in Allegan and Van Buren. Berrien county was free of fatalities although two dozen motorists were injured.

The Cass and Van Buren crashes helped swell the nationwide highway death toll for the Memorial Day holiday to 381, surpassing the previous record for a two-day observance set in 1959. The Allegan crash occurred shortly before noon Friday and technically is not included in the holiday period, which started at 6 p.m. Friday.

18 IN MICHIGAN
In Michigan, the holiday accounted for a total of 18 traffic deaths in the hours from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Southwestern Michigan victims included:

• Albert C. Johnson, 23, Elkhart, Ind., and Martin Liggett, Jr., 20, Niles, who died in a two-car collision Saturday evening in Cass county near Cassopolis.

• Mrs. Samuel Wesaw, 32, of Hartford, who died Sunday when the car in which she was a passenger rolled out of control north of Lawrence in Van Buren county and crashed into a tree.

• Jessie R. Dillon, 23, of Holland, killed shortly before noon Friday in Allegan county when his motorcycle skidded into the front of a truck east of Saugatuck.

Cass County Sheriff James E. Northrop said Liggett and Johnson were passengers in cars that collided at the intersection of Calvin Hill street and Calvin Center road, seven miles south-east of Cassopolis.

Force of the stop street intersection crash tore the engine from one auto and spun the other car end-over-end for 150 yards.

The two deaths bring to nine the number of persons killed on Cass county roads this year. Last year at this time the county had logged 13 traffic fatalities.

Drivers of the vehicles, Michael Klindworth, 21, of 2406 Bond street, Niles, and Jessie J. Jackson, 31, of Elkhart, were admitted to Elkhart General hospital where their conditions were described today as fair.

Both men reportedly suffered extensive cuts and contusions. Klindworth was reported to have a broken arm.

Sheriff Northrop said Klindworth was driving west on Calvin Hill street and failed to observe a stop sign. He said the Klindworth auto struck the Jackson auto in the right front section.

The motor from the Jackson auto was hurled about 100 feet from the point of impact, with the car coming to rest upside down on the south side of the road. Johnson was a passenger in this car.

END-OVER-END
The Klindworth auto spun end-over-end 150 yards down the road before coming to rest. Liggett was pinned in the wreckage. The body was freed by officers and men with a wrecker crew.

Both bodies were taken to Conley funeral home, Cassopolis. Funeral arrangements are being made. (See back page, sec. 1, col. 8)

SLAMS INTO HOUSE: Six occupants of this auto received only minor hurts when it went out of control on Pipestone road at Park road north of Eau Claire and flew into the home of Reinhold Herman, Route 1, Eau Claire. The six were treated at two area hospitals and released. Residents of the house were asleep when the crash occurred about 5 a.m. Saturday. Berrien Deputy Tom Exum said the car left Pipestone about 450 feet from the front lawn of the house, slammed into an embankment edging the yard, bounced 30 feet into the air and hurdled 55 feet into the house. The driver was ticketed on a charge of reckless driving. (Staff photo)

Plane Crashes At Mackinac Isle

MACKINAC ISLAND — An intensive Coast Guard search was to begin this morning for an Andrews university seminary student and his wife, presumed killed when their light plane crashed just after takeoff from this island resort in dense fog Saturday.

Victims of the plane crash in the Straits of Mackinac are Gary Anderson, 24, and his wife, Glenda.

DOWAGIAC NURSE
Mr. Anderson was a student at the Seventh-day Adventist seminary at Andrews university, Berrien Springs. His wife was a registered nurse on the staff of Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac. He had been a seminary student since 1968 and was scheduled to graduate August.

Papers from the plane, a Cessna 210, washed ashore and were found near St. Ignace on the north side of the Straits Sunday.

Mackinac county sheriff's officers said they received reports from several persons along the shore who said they heard a loud noise about 5 p.m. Saturday. Officers presume the plane crashed almost immediately after takeoff from Mackinac Island.

The Andersons' fateful trip began shortly after noon on Saturday at the Dowagiac Airport. The plane, which has been flown just over 700 hours, was owned jointly by Gary Risk and Ed Harden, Berrien Springs plumbers, and was leased to Andrews university for its flight training program.

"Gary picked up the keys to the plane around 12:30," said Wendell Cole, AU flight instructor. "He is a good student pilot and seldom takes chances. He had in about 195 hours of flying time, including 20 with the Cessna 210, ten of which were solo."

Some Market Mysteries Explained

The stock market news shifts occasionally from the financial page to the front page.

Lately the market's behavior has chased Viet Nam, student riots and similar fare from the banner headline position.

We are indebted to Carl Thiel, the boss man at Berrien Securities in Benton Harbor, and to Wayne Hummer & Co., a Chicago brokerage firm, for clearing away a few mysteries surrounding the market.

One is the market's average which as the reader well knows has slipped badly in the past 18 months. It dropped from 950 to 700 last week.

This average is a measuring stick developed years ago by Dow-Jones. The Dow-Jones theory, as we grasp it quite vaguely, is a sampling of performance by selected companies in industry, public utilities and railroads. How these corporations perform on the stock market, runs the theory, so is the national economy headed. So also is the market's overall position even though quotations on other stocks may run helter skelter from the averages.

Let 'em run, either up or down, holds Dow-Jones. Sooner or later the mavericks will conform to what the plowhorses are doing.

Though Dow-Jones has competing theories and many market analysts feel DJ has been out of touch for a long time, their word is what the news media passes on as gospel.

The performance followed more closely than any other is the Dow-Jones industrial average. This is common stock range of the following 30 corporations:

Allied Chemical, Alcoa, American Brands, American Can, AT&T, Anaconda Copper, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, DuPont, Eastman Kodak, GE, General Foods, GMC, Goodyear, International Harvester, International Nickel, International Paper, Johns-Manville, Owens-Illinois, Procter & Gamble, Sears, Standard Oil of Calif., Standard Oil of N.J., Swift, Texaco, Union Carbide, United Aircraft, U.S. Steel, Westinghouse and Woolworth.

The list is revised at infrequent intervals. This is a matter of judgement which draws a running fire from the D-J critics. Regardless of the merits of

New Approach

When research on the cause of a serious disease encounters difficulty in tracing the origin, what better approach is there than to try to find another approach, such as overcoming the effects of the disease whatever its cause?

This in effect is what the Syracuse Cancer Research Institute in Syracuse, N. Y., is doing in its quest for a breakthrough in cancer research.

Dr. Joseph Gold, director of the institute, has turned his attention to efforts to overcome the actual cause of death in a majority of cancer patients, which is cachexia, or the gradual loss of weight and debilitation.

"What happens," says Dr. Gold, "is that while the emaciation is going on in the body, an opposite process is also going on, the tumor is flourishing."

In laboratory tests on rats, Dr. Gold has found that reversing the emaciation process by introducing certain amino acids not only retarded the growth of tumors, but in some cases even caused regression.

This is a hopeful beginning in a new look at the challenge of cancer.

that contention, the daily didoes of those 30 stocks is what is reported as the market's average.

Since Allied Chemical is around 19, General Foods is about 70, DuPont is 105 or so, and the other 27 are between Allied Chemical and General Foods, how can the market average be 700 or thereabouts?

Simple, answers Wayne Hummer.

DJ is multiplying the prices back to what they would be had not the 30 leaders split their shares a number of times since their original issue dates.

Or stated another way, Dow-Jones is giving a hypothetical price which the original shares should show.

Wayne Hummer theorizes that the Dow Jones average should be divided about 15 times to state a more realistic average.

Why this is not done is another mystery, though we suspect it is more impressive to state an average to be 700 than to report it out at 47.

All this is rather technical even though it leads to the bread and butter question of "what's gonna be with the market?"

Many people and all liberal politicians are convinced the market twitches by insider manipulation.

Market columnists editorially profoundly that the insider is no more than a flea on the camel, that the market reflects the working of forces which even Einstein's mathematical genius could not equate.

Thiel who has been in the brokerage business since the 1920s has a more down to earth view. It goes somewhat like this:

"When a friend asks the No. 1 man in a large outfit how his company is doing and what are its prospects, his answer sooner or later becomes a buy or a sell order in that stock."

"That kind of conversation counts for more than all the balance sheets and P&Ls ever printed, all the market and product lines analyses ever dug out."

Here's Wayne Hummer's latest comment:

"Among those with widespread reputations who are predicting the trends of stock market prices ahead, placid and composed oldsters who either already have made their pile or know that money is not real wealth no longer are too concerned about how much price erosion will occur. They believe the bottom has just about been reached and that later on, in retrospect, folks will be wondering why they did not gobble up the remains of obvious bargains in higher grade stocks that are available now."

"Current apathy of so many investors as evidenced by the comparatively small volume of transactions might be the keynote of the present market's bottom rather than a classical selling climax."

Although the Wayne Hummer comment contains a very apparent "buy now while the bargains last" nitch, the Chicago firm and Thiel reach a consistent conclusion. Somebody has told the smart boys to go fishing for a while.

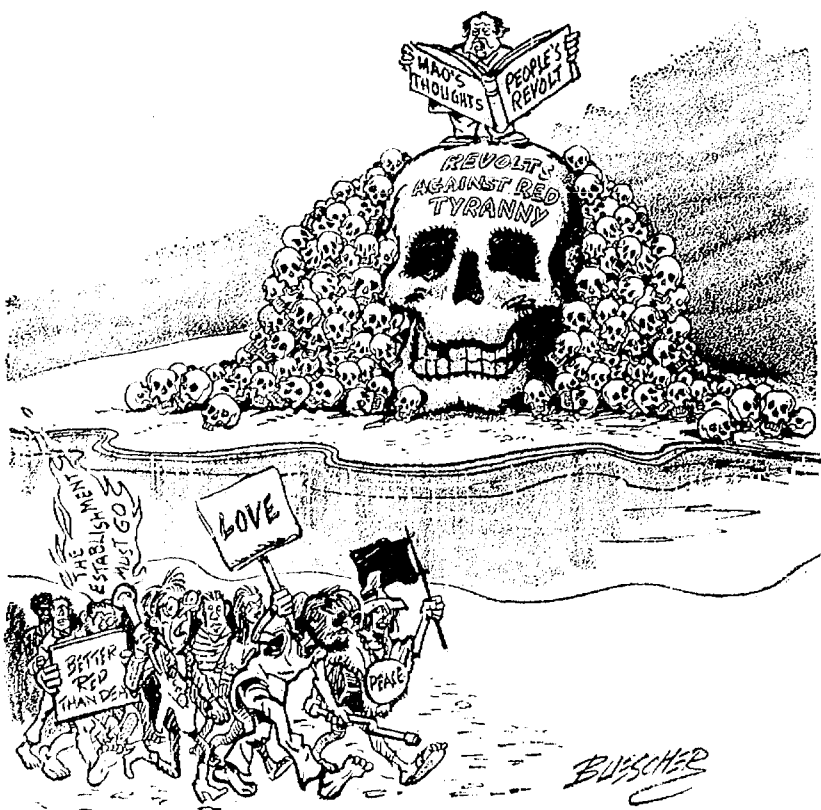

Tradition inevitably has won an important round in Britain's slow but steady course toward the acceptance of decimal coinage next year. The sixpence will not be dropped along with the other denominations now in use after all.

Only after terrific popular pressure did the government decide to reprice the sixpence. Perhaps it was impressed by a national poll which showed 73 percent of the populace was in favor of retaining the popular "tanner."

It will have an awkward value of 2.5 new pence under the decimal system, but to a people who have long endured coinage which is not easily divisible by one another, that is no serious matter. What is important is that the sixpence is the coin most popularly used for such everyday transactions as phone calls, subway tickets, vending machines and slot machines.

Coins, after all, were meant as a medium of exchange, a point perhaps overlooked in the drive toward conformity.

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

Editor,
The Herald Press:

A MAN, A SOLDIER

My son in Vietnam, Artis P. Burton, sent us this poem. He said he can't put his thoughts into words, but this poem expresses the way he feels, too.

The poem, written by Sgt. James Roberts, originally appeared in Stars and Stripes, Engine-Fireman Burton is aboard the USA Craft YRBA 21.

Take a man, make him a soldier.
Put his kind alone 12,000 miles from home.
Empty his heart of all but the blood
Make him live in sweat and mud.

You have a ball without really trying.
While over here men are dying.
You burn your draft cards and march at dawn,
You put your signs on the White House lawn.

You want to ban the deadly bomb.
You say there's no war in Vietnam.
Use your drugs and have your fun,
And refuse to lift a gun.

I see his arm a bloody shred,
And I hear the medic say, "This one's dead."
It's quite a price he had to pay
Not to live another day.

He had the guts to fight and die,
He paid the price but what did he buy?
He bought your life by losing his.
But what do you care what a soldier gives.

Mrs. Artis Burton

..And Speaking Of Your Health

Recently you wrote that German measles can be wiped out if everybody were to be vaccinated with the new vaccine. Does this mean that adult women should also receive a protective injection?

Dear Mrs. L.: The new vaccine has proven to be remarkably effective against rubella or German measles. As many of my readers know, this infectious disease has been responsible for many birth defects when the pregnant mother contracts the disease. It is for this very reason that it had been hoped that all young girls would have had German measles and developed immunity to it so later it would not again occur in later life.

It would, of course, be ideal if every woman were vaccinated at the present time but there is a catch. There seems to be some question about the danger that a recently vaccinated woman in the child-bearing age would have if she became pregnant shortly after receiving the German measles vaccine.

Young women who are expecting to have a family should therefore not receive the rubella vaccine without discussing the matter completely and fully with their doctors. The chances, generally, are so slight that a pregnant woman will contract the disease that there is no point in inviting the possibility by a harmful vaccination.

After an operation for the removal of a wisdom tooth I bled extensively. I feel that this is the fault of my dentist who did not give me vitamin K in advance. I have no bleeding tendency and therefore I know that it all could have been avoided.

Mr. T. D., Washington
Dear Mr. D.: Bleeding in such a situation is your own personal responsibility because it is your body and your circulation that is responsible for it. It is far easier to put the blame on your dentist than it is to accept it as a normal, or abnormal condition of your own body.

Far too often dentists and doctors are blamed for that over which they have no control. Each individual heals differently, too. Using the same technique, I have seen scars following an operation on the thyroid gland heal with a fine line that is barely visible. Others may heal with a wide unattractive scar and immediately place the blame on the surgeon.

I am sorry to intimate that it is this kind of unfair and unwarranted attitude that becomes a factor in the nonpayment of a doctor's bill or even the instigation of a lawsuit for malpractice when no such situation really existed.

Since you have had no bleeding tendency in the past, there is no reason why your dentist should have been suspicious of it and prescribed vitamin K. And now let me suggest that vitamin K is never given unless there is a known deficiency of a substance known as prothrombin, vital to blood coagulation. In the absence of severe liver disease or other serious medical problems, vitamin K would not in any way have altered the fact that you had somewhat more bleeding than normal after your tooth was extracted. It is quite unfair to substitute condemnation for the gratitude which really was due to your dentist for his contribution to your health.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Carefully examine all new toys for the possibility that they may injure the child, playmates or adults.

Opening lead — ten of diamonds.

Here is an excellent hand played by the late Sidney Silodor. He was in six hearts and west led the ten of diamonds. It seemed highly likely that East had the king, so South's chief problem was to avoid a trump loser.

Silodor solved the problem in very neat style. He won the diamond lead with the ace, played a heart to the ace, returned the jack, and finessed. When the jack held, he cashed the king, ran six clubs, discarded ing dummy's diamonds, and thus made seven.

What's so wonderful about all this, you ask? Others have also been known to finesse against a queen with nine trumps, even though the finesse is against the odds. Well, there's one little item we neglected to mention.

On the ace of diamonds Silodor had dropped the queen! Silodor couldn't tell where the queen of hearts was located, but his play was designed to make the slam whether East or West had the queen.

Suppose, after he had dropped the queen of diamonds and played the trumps as he did, East had shown up with the queen. Silodor would have lost a trump trick, it is true, but what would East have returned?

East would almost surely not have led the king of diamonds. He would instead assume that his partner had led from the 10-9-8 and that declarer's queen was a singleton.

East would therefore return a spade to his partner's hoped-for ace — unless he had the ace himself, in which case he would try to cash it.

Had Silodor finessed the diamond lead, he might or might not have guessed the trump situation later, but the way he played the hand he was an overwhelming favorite to make the slam.

The conductor protested vainly that it not only looked like a goat, but smelled like a goat. Thereupon the animal (1) butted the conductor in the stomach (2) bleated, and (3) ate a mailbag. When the train arrived at its terminal, furthermore, the alleged African dog butted the conductor a second time for good measure and then gave milk!

WEEKEND HOLIDAY AUTO ACCIDENTS HURT 24

Only Three Persons Hospitalized

Local Policemen Investigate 39 Road Mishaps

Twenty-four persons were injured over the Memorial holiday weekend in 39 accidents investigated by four area law enforcement agencies through 6 p.m. Sunday. Only three of the victims required hospitalization.

Six of the 24 were injured in one Saturday morning crash involving a car and a house near Eau Claire, but none were hospitalized, authorities said.

(Three persons were killed in holiday weekend crashes in southwestern Michigan. Two of the deaths occurred in Cass county and the other in Van Buren. See stories on page 1.)

Four others were injured in a two-car smashup on I-94 near Stevensville Friday night. One of the cars burst into flames seconds after its occupant fled through a roof vent. One of the four was hospitalized.

TORN IN HALF

Two persons received cuts, scrapes and bruises in a crash on M-139 at Empire avenue Friday night in which one of the cars was torn in half by the impact.

The crash involving the house occurred when a car carrying the six persons northward on Pipestone road, went out of control and rammed into an embankment. It bounced 30 feet upward and flew 55 feet into the home of Reinholt Herman, Route 1 Pipestone road, Eau Claire. The home is located at the Park road junction with Pipestone.

Berrien Sheriff's Deputy Tom Exum said the car, operated by Charles Coleman, 43, of 308 Wooden street, Dowagiac, went out of control about 450 feet from the embankment. Coleman was ticketed for reckless driving.

The car came to rest nose down in front of the home's front steps. Its trunk was leaning up against the porch roof. Minor damage was caused to the roof edge and front of the house. The residents were all asleep when the crash occurred about 5 a.m.

The sheriff's office said the Friday night crash on I-94 occurred about 11 p.m. when a car driven by Jimmie L. Carrell, 27, South Bend, Ind., slammed into the rear of a small foreign sports car parked on the shoulder.

Carrell was arrested on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants, deputies said.

ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Virgil Carrell, 58, Butler drive, Benton Harbor, a passenger in Carrell's auto, was admitted to Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, with possible internal injuries and face and head cuts.

Frank Alonzo Mendez, 28, Calendon Hills, Ill., driver of the parked car, said he was fixing the ignition when the crash occurred. He said he grabbed his suitcase and escaped through the roof vent and was walking toward the other car when his car burst into flames.

The car of Carolyn Jean Hainey, 28, Andrews university, Berrien Springs, was ripped in half in the crash on M-139 at Empire. Benton township police said the car collided with an auto operated by Barry W. Knapp, 25, Hagar Shore, Coloma.

According to officers the Knapp auto was southbound and the Hainey auto northbound on M-139 when the crash occurred. No tickets were issued pending completion of the investigation, officers said.

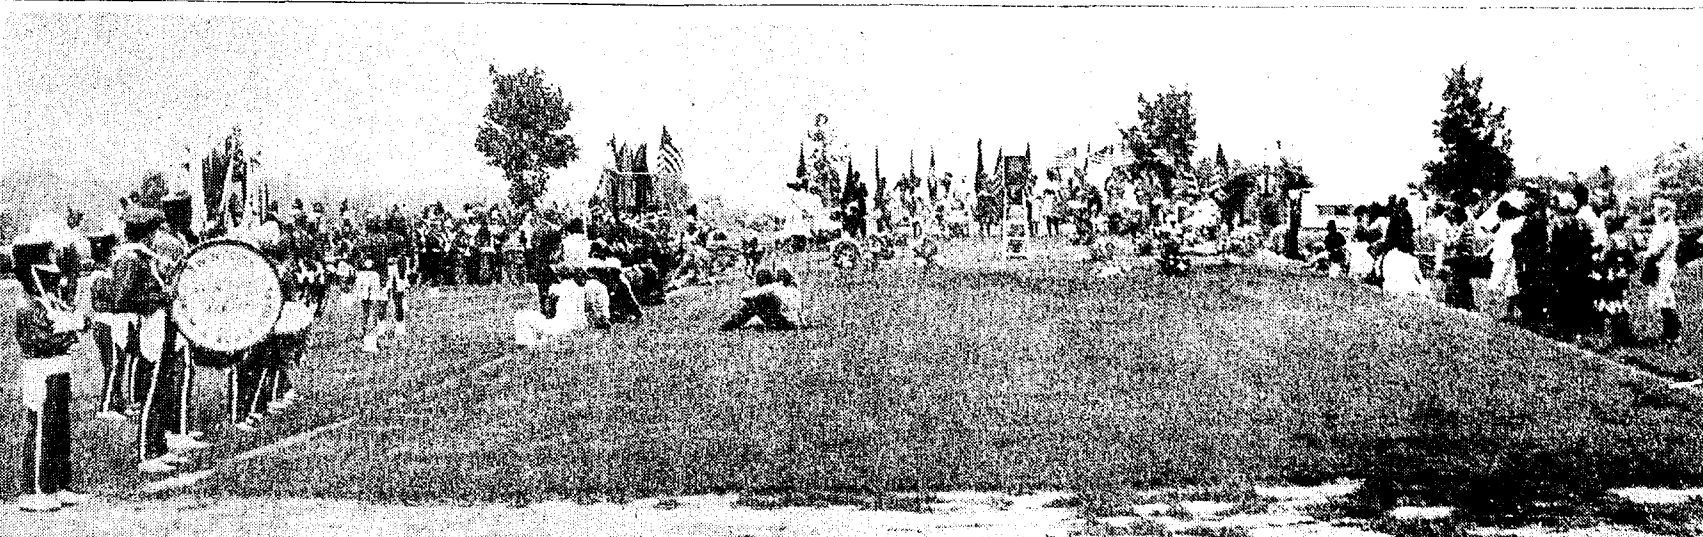

Motorcyclist Edwin Frank Goldner, 21, Route 1, Watson road, Eau Claire, was admitted to Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, with a broken left leg, following a crash with a car on Watson road at Hochberger road Saturday afternoon.

Sheriff's deputies said the car was operated by Johnnie Lee Davis, 32, of 888 McGuffin street, Benton Harbor. Davis was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield the right of way, officers said.

Released after being hospitalized overnight following another accident was Mrs. Denise Brousean, 36, Chesterton, Ind. Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Brousean was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Jean Luis, 37, when it turned in front of another car on M-140 near I-94 Friday night.

Driver of the other car was Alfred Wilbur Ploch, 33, route

HONOR NATION'S HEROES: An estimated 200 persons attended Sunday Memorial Day services at Crystal Springs Cemetery, Benton Harbor. Maj. Walt Winters of the Benton Harbor Salvation Army Citadel, said the dead heroes could be honored most by imitating their ideals and dedication. They died to preserve this nation and the nation should strive to preserve what they died for, he said. Mayor Wilbert F. Smith also spoke briefly. The ceremony was sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1137, Benton Harbor, and its auxiliary. It was one of the events occurring over the weekend in honor of the nation's war dead. (Photo by Pete Mitchell)

'LET US RE-DEDICATE OURSELVES:' State Sen. Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, urged a re-dedication by Americans to preserving the basic freedoms and rights for which the nation's war dead died to keep over the years. Speaking Saturday at a Memorial Day observance in North Shore Memory Gardens, Zollar said "We have come to honor sacrifice . . . Together, here, let us re-dedicate ourselves to the task of preserving the basic freedoms and prerogatives on which this country's government is based. The men we honor here, today, dedicated their lives that we might make that resolution . . ." Zollar said the very right to dissent was retained by the heroes but that violence and destruction was not included. He rapped student outbursts and called on students to police themselves. Taking part in the program were the American Legion Post 105 and its auxiliary; American Legion Post 410; VFW Post 1137 and its auxiliary; Gold Star Mothers; Mothers of World War II; Twin Cities Disabled American Veterans; and the Twin City Drum and Bugle Corps. Students Tackle Local Problems

St. Joseph Seniors Seek To 'Get Involved'

Some 330 seniors at St. Joseph high school have studied Twin Cities area problems for a month and now have projected solutions for them—from pollution and drugs to migrants and traffic.

The public is invited to attend the open house sessions including visual portions of the projects and/or listen to the students discuss their solutions and proposals on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 2 and 3.

Seniors will be in rooms 204 and 210 in the new wing of the high school where the projects are displayed, between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. either day.

Groups of seniors chose different problems to concentrate on during an "Involvement in the Community" program of their American Problems classes.

According to one instructor in the class, Mrs. Paula Gohde, students reached their conclusions and suggestions by researching how other communities tackled similar problems; they joined local groups and organizations and contacted and interviewed authorities on a certain subject.

Problem areas center on education, business districts, pollution of all kinds, traffic and transportation, public health, drugs, vandalism, police-community relations, crime, recreation, migrants, intercity relations, beautification, zoning and a civic center.

"Students have either proposed or enacted a positive solution to the problems as part of the project," Mrs. Gohde explained.

Other instructors who've helped get the students "involved" are John Pegram, Lloyd MacTavish and Tony Bruno.

GRAVEL LAKE 'BATTLE' GOES ON AND ON

Lane Usage
Triggers
Dispute

Prosecutor Buhl
'Washes Hands' Of
Legal Dilemma

By STEVE McQUOWN
Paw Paw Bureau

LAWTON — While the Battle of Gravel Lake is not likely to make the history books, it has distinguished itself in the mind of Van Buren County Prosecutor William Buhl.

The Battle of Gravel Lake amounts to a property dispute between Mrs. James Andrews and one, if not more, of her neighbors.

The battle first flared, according to Mrs. Andrews, last September. There was renewed action this month and it has prompted Buhl to wash his hands of the complaints and counter-complaints.

"To me it has become such a contention," he said "that it appears that private interests are taking priority over public interests."

The dispute is this: There is a lane or drive, according to plat maps, that runs near and along most of the east side of Gravel Lake, on Streeter Beach.

This so-called lane or drive cuts through the property of the Andrews family and that of other home owners on the beach.

Mrs. Andrews claims the 21-foot-wide lane or drive has not been maintained, has lost its identity as a road and is now private property where it runs through the Andrews property.

Mrs. Andrews, 35, is married and has two children. She was born in the house, and the property has been in the family for about 46 years, she said. They live at the Gravel Lake home year-round.

She said in a recent interview that she and her husband have never objected to "reasonable use" of the so-called lane by other plat owners.

But in September, and again on May 21, she said, earth-moving equipment under contract to another near-by owner attempted to pass through the Andrews property.

Mrs. Andrews said that to halt the trucks, she sat down in the middle of the grassy roadway in what has become the symbolic posture of civil disobedience.

Dump trucks loaded with dirt came to a halt and sheriff's deputies were called.

Mrs. Andrews said her attorney had advised her that the public nature of the road had to be established before she could be forcibly and legally moved.

The deputies apparently disagreed, she related, and she was removed to county jail on a charge of creating a disturbance.

After being mugged and fingerprinted, she was taken to Prosecutor Buhl's office where she and Buhl came to an agreement, Mrs. Andrews said.

She said Buhl agreed not to prosecute criminal charges if she agreed not to bring civil action against "any party involved directly or indirectly including police officers" with her arrest.

She said she signed the agreement on the advice of her attorney.

"I think they could have had me hauled off by a gang of thugs and there would not have been any difference," said Mrs. Andrews of the arrest.

She said she intends to continue to try and prohibit "commercial" use of the lane.

She added that if the county does not vacate the lane she will probably go to court to obtain clarification of the land's use.

Buhl agrees, "It would be better resolved in a civil action," he said.

"Because of the questions raised," Buhl added, "I'm not going to subject my officers to any more possible law suits."

Perhaps not incidentally to Buhl's caution is the fact that the county does not have false arrest insurance covering deputies.

The county commissioners revealed on May 12 that when they renewed county insurance coverage, insurance covering possible false arrest suits was

Wanted Man Held
In Van BurenDeputy Injured When Car
Speeds From Scene

By STEVE McQUOWN
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A man arrested following an incident Thursday night near Keeler in which a Van Buren deputy sheriff was injured, is sought by Arkansas authorities, according to the sheriff's department here.

A sheriff's spokesman said Leonard Jasper Young, 25, of Memphis, Tenn., is wanted by Little Rock authorities on a warrant charging Young with having violated his parole.

Young appeared in Seventh District court here Friday and pleaded guilty to charges of drunk driving and operating a motor vehicle without a valid operator's license.

Judge Luther I. Daines assessed Young fine and costs totaling $206 on the two charges.

Young was arrested about 10:08 p.m. Thursday north of Keeler where he had rolled his automobile, according to Van Buren Sheriff's Deputy Sgt. Tom Riley. Young was not injured.

A few minutes earlier, Riley said, Deputy Dave Goddard, 33, had suffered a cut on the head requiring 12 stitches to close when he fell from Young's car as it sped away from the Keeler tavern.

Riley said he and Goddard had stopped Young and asked to see his driver's license. As Goddard waited for Young, Riley said he stepped inside the tavern on a related matter and when he stepped outside, he saw the Young vehicle leaving the area with Goddard half in and half out of the vehicle.

Goddard was apparently dislodged from the car and fell to the road, striking his head, Riley said.

Goddard was under a doctor's care Friday, but returned to work Saturday.

Meanwhile, Young remained in county jail today pending a decision by Arkansas authorities on extradition.

He was reportedly parole after being sentenced in 1968 to a five-year-term on a charge of carnal abusion, a sheriff's spokesman said.

"Because of the questions raised," Buhl added, "I'm not going to subject my officers to any more possible law suits."

Perhaps not incidentally to Buhl's caution is the fact that the county does not have false arrest insurance covering deputies.

The county commissioners revealed on May 12 that when they renewed county insurance coverage, insurance covering possible false arrest suits was somehow omitted.

The Battle of Gravel Lake is not the first of its kind in Van Buren county.

There was a similar spat over platted roads and property on Lake Brownwood. A decision was handed down in that case on Dec. 14, 1961.

But a Paw Paw attorney familiar with that case said the decision was so indecisive that it could probably not be used for a precedent.

Tax Bill Hiked By Equalization

Colomans Will Pay More, But Levy Is Same

By DELL GAUT
Staff Writer

COLOMA—Taxes are going up in Coloma despite the fact that the millage levy will remain about the same, according to City Clerk Patricia Johnson. She blames the new equalization figures.

She says that because the property valuations have been increased, the same amount of millage will bring in more tax money. According to published figures, the increase will amount to about 16 per cent.

In cash, that's roughly $13,000 more tax money to be collected in the 1970-71 fiscal year. It is about half of the total increase in revenue expected by the city. Fees, refunds from state collected taxes, and interest on investments are expected to also increase about $13,000.

This brings the total expected tax hike to $26,000, making the city's total anticipated income $198,551.

According to the proposed budget, it will all be spent. The budget is expected to be approved June 8 following a public hearing at city hall at 8 p.m.

"Generally," Mrs. Johnson said, salaries are to be increased about 5 per cent, "across the board." Annual salaries in the general operations part of the budget will remain the same.

Largest single expenditure being planned in the general operations budget is $25,304 with which to build a new garage.

Mrs. Johnson said the present garage on South Church street

NOW OPEN: Lincoln township has authorized $10,000 worth of work on the approaches of Roosevelt road bridge. The Berrien County road commission has opened the bridge temporarily and later this summer will eliminate a slight curve on the north approach. The $44,600 bridge crosses Hickory creek about a mile east of Stevensville. It was constructed by Getman Bros. of South Haven. (Staff photo)

Benton Man Faces Drug Count Trial

A Benton township man charged with possessing marijuana has been ordered to stand trial in Berrien circuit court.

Brought over to the higher court by Fifth District Judge John T. Hammond was Thomas F. Costner, 25, of 957 Thomas street.

Costner was arrested by township police April 22, when they stopped his car at M-139 and Pipestone and discovered a package and cigarette containing a substance believed to be marijuana. Three area youths in the car with Costner were released after questioning.

is small and is somewhat of an "eyesore" to the neighborhood. The city wants to build a larger garage on the old dump, she said.

The budget for the police department calls for an increase of about $2,000 in payroll — salaries for two fulltime officers and two on parttime.

It also calls for an expenditure of $2,500 for a new patrol car. The car is already bought, however, and in service. Mrs. Johnson said the condition of the old car made the premature purchase necessary.

In the fire department there is an increase of about $300 for salaries, but everything else remains about the same.

The budget for the highway department will increase roughly $15,000, the proposed budget shows. Much of it will pay for paving projects on Ryno road and on Church street.

The public works department's budget remains about the same next year.

The water and sewer department budget calls for an expenditure of $57,000. But, Mrs. Johnson points out that this department requires no general fund monies.

She says this department is entirely self supporting, the only department of the city that is.

Of the total anticipated 1970-71 expenditure the department allocations are:

General operations, $26,338; general fund appropriations, $47,767; public works, $6,426; police department, $29,793; fire department, $7,205; highway department, $65,712; and contingency fund, $14,308.

REPAIR FAULT IN LMC WALL: Workmen are in process of repairing fault that developed along face of brick wall on third floor of library building on new Lake Michigan college campus. Some 40 courses of brick along about 75 foot stretch of cantilevered wall must be replaced. William Niemi, LMC dean of business affairs, said building, completed last August, is still in warranty and repairs are being done at no cost to college. An investigation is underway by engineers to place responsibility. Niemi said wall moved slightly outward, causing a crack in the interior. Third story wall is cantilevered above a long overhang. Repair was started after close of school year last week.
